

How Effective Are Your People?

A tool to assess individual, team, and organisational effectiveness.

Do your staff really understand the strategic objectives of the organisation and their role in achieving these?

Do they plan and prioritise their work accordingly?

Are they actually effective rather than simply busy?

Do they feel adequately supported?

Is email under control?

How do the perceptions of your Senior Managers differ to the perceptions of your staff?

Ultimately, do you know where your resources are best directed to enhance output and realise better results from your people?

The Effective Workplace™ Survey

Developed from over 30 years experience in improving personal and team effectiveness, TMI (formerly Time Manager International) is delighted to offer a tool to address the above questions. Similar in methodology to our well-regarded Complaints Culture Survey which has now been running internationally for the past six years, this new survey collects employee and senior manager perceptions of their behaviours across nine key factors:

- Understanding Strategic Goals
- Making Goal-Based Decisions
- Personal Planning
- Results Orientation
- Systems & Processes
- Managing Email
- Internal Support
- Meeting Effectiveness, and
- Team Effectiveness

Note: Each factor comprises a series of statements.

The 15 minute survey is administered online with essentially an unlimited number of employees able to participate.
